▶ 01 INTRODUCTION

Gardens by the Bay comprises three gardens: Bay South, Bay East and Bay Central. At present only the first phase, the 54-hectare Bay South is open. The largest of the three gardens, it forms a major space within Marina Bay and is linked to the iconic Marina Bay Sands by the Dragonfly Bridge.

BAY SOUTH GARDEN

Designed by UK-based landscape architecture firm Grant Associates, the Gardens showcase the best in tropical horticulture and garden artistry with a mass display of flowers and colourful foliage. Key features of the Bay South Garden are the Flower Dome and Cloud Forest conservatories, 18 Supertrees as well as themed gardens and lakes.

PLANET

White painted bronze, stainless steel
Sculptor: Marc Quinn
United Kingdom

Beautifully balanced on a languid arm of a sleeping boy child, this seven-ton, 383cm by 353cm by 925cm bronze cast sculpture floats like a heavenly body above a verdant earth. Renowned sculptor Marc Quinn (b. 1964) created this work in a depiction of his infant son, Lucas. Quinn deploys an assortment of materials and techniques to explore nature under human influence in themes that include the changing human body and the dual meanings of human life between spiritual and physical, surface and depth, cerebral and sensual. This piece is the second of three editions, and is gifted for permanent display in the Gardens by the Bay

GOLDEN GARDEN

A cluster of three Supertrees forms part of the Golden Garden. This garden is planted with ferns, flowers and shrubs that have a golden hue as gold symbolises prosperity. A statue of a bull which is a sign of a good run in the stock market adds to the theme of wealth and success.

ABOUT THE PHOTOGRAPHER

Bernard Go Kwang Meng works in the creative industry and is a photo enthusiast. He spends much of his free time capturing images of what he sees around him; finding inspiration in street scenes, good food, well-designed items and exceptional architecture. This is his second pictorial album; he was also the photographer for the best-selling Images of Singapore.
